24th November 2011

Dear Parents

As you are probably aware, there is planned strike action from a number of public sector workers for next Wednesday 30th November. Teachers and support staff at Wanborough Primary School, who are affiliated to unions which have balloted, are entitled to follow their union's advice and strike if they so decide.

As Headteacher, I have the responsibility to make a decision on whether the school remains open, partially open or closed based on a risk assessment being completed. On this occasion, Wanborough Primary School will be fully open next week.

However, I must inform you that it is the right of any member of staff to take industrial action post my risk assessment, which might lead to changes in the organisation of the school between now and even the morning of next Wednesday. I will, of course, inform you as early as possible of any changes, but in the meantime I would urge you to respect the democratic rights of any professional who now or in the future takes industrial action.

Yours sincerely

Andrew Drury
Headteacher
